

Can't afford your medication?

PharmacyChecker.com may be able to help you save as much as 90%

Did you know that pharmaceutical companies often charge much less for their drugs outside the U.S. than here at home? Since 2003, PharmacyChecker.com has helped Americans find more affordable medication from reputable online pharmacies inside and outside the U.S. And, best of all, PharmacyChecker.com is free to use!

PharmacyChecker.com, which was started by an American physician, has been featured as a resource in articles and reports by AARP, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, The Los Angeles Times, The People's Pharmacy, Forbes, CBS News, U.S. News & World Report, and other many more.

Using the free website www.PharmacyChecker.com you can

- Compare drug prices to find the best savings.
- Identify reputable online pharmacies in other countries which will fill your prescription and mail your medication directly to your home.
- Set up Price Alerts and to remind you of pricing changes on the medications you use.

Keep in mind that PharmacyChecker.com only lists licensed pharmacies regulated under the laws where they operate – so you will need to have a prescription from your doctor. Controlled substances cannot be ordered internationally. You can only order up to a 3-month supply of medication. In addition, although the U.S. government technically considers most personal drug importation not to be legal, the FDA has never prosecuted someone for doing so.

You can access PharmacyChecker.com on any computer, tablet, iPhone, smart phone, or other Internet-connected device.
